

10 Outlier Video Ideas — Ashley Rudder

Month 1 Day 1 · final deliverable Every idea below is a remix of a video that actually overperformed in your competitor set. Source, real numbers, and outlier score are named on each one. Nothing here is invented from taste.

Voice check applied to all ten: short declarative sentences, first-person authority, real names and real numbers, no hedging, closes on a provocation rather than a summary.

The pattern the data actually supports

Across 389 outlier videos in your niche:

- 22% open with "How I" or "How to" — and "How I" beats "How to." The personal receipt outperforms the tutorial.
 - 11% are year-stamped. Cheapest edge available. Add 2026.
 - Nothing above a 1000 outlier score has more than 42K subscribers. Being small is not the disadvantage here.
 - Teardown-as-story is the highest-transferring format found. Named subject, real number, quiet verb.

1. You Don't Have a Content Problem. You Have an Unactivated Payroll.

Pillar 3 · Enterprise EGC Source outlier: DSMN8, "AstraZeneca's Secret to Employee Advocacy & Influence Success" — 6,994 views on 359 subscribers, 67.9× breakout.

The whole employee-advocacy category on YouTube is seven vendor channels, none above 700 subs. That video proves the demand exists. It was made by a software company whose call to action is a demo.

Hook: "Your competitor just spent $250,000 on an influencer campaign. I can tell you exactly what they got for it, because I've bought those campaigns. Now let me tell you what the twelve people in your Slack could have done with the same money."

Thumbnail: You, arms folded, flat black. Text: $250K CAMPAIGN struck through, 12 EMPLOYEES beneath it.

2. The Pitch That Took MAC Four Months to Approve, and Why I'd Run It the Same Way Again

Pillar 1 · Offer Mechanics Source outlier: Think Like A Creator, "How ShxtsnGigs Quietly Built a $20,000,000+ Empire" — 153,373 views on 8,980 subscribers, outlier score 1,726.

Named subject, real number, quiet verb. That's the structure. He applies it to other people's businesses. You can apply it to a room you were actually standing in.

Hook: "Four months. Eleven meetings. One slide that nearly killed it. Here's the pitch, and here's the part I'd refuse to change."

Thumbnail: A single slide on screen, one line circled in red. Text: 4 MONTHS TO APPROVE.

3. Underpriced, Unpackaged, Unlaunched: The Three Wounds Killing Your Offer

Pillar 1 · Offer Mechanics Source outlier: The Quiet Power Move, "The Psychological Trick That Makes Showing Up Beat Being Brilliant Every Time" — 10,281 views on 4,960 subscribers, outlier score 1,320.

Named-mechanism titles overperform badly at small scale. That channel has one and no authority behind it. You have both.

Hook: "There are only three reasons you haven't been paid what you're worth. I've never seen a fourth. Find yours in the next nine minutes."

Thumbnail: Three words stacked, two struck through. UNDERPRICED / UNPACKAGED / UNLAUNCHED.

4. I Ran My Own Business Through the Golden Offer System. Here's What It Found.

Pillar 1 + 5 Source outlier: Rory Ridgers, "How I Automate 80% of My Marketing with Claude Code" — 12,277 views on 6,300 subscribers, outlier score 575.

"How I" plus a specific percentage plus a named tool. The most reliably transferable title shape in the whole dataset.

Hook: "I built the system. Then I pointed it at myself. It found three things I'd been avoiding for a year."

Thumbnail: Screen recording still, one output highlighted. Text: IT FOUND 3 THINGS.

5. Inside the AI Workforce Running My Own Agency

Pillar 5 · Build the System Source outlier: Mani Kanasani, "I Built 5 AI Employees With OpenClaw (Here's How)" — 138,951 views on 21,700 subscribers, outlier score 429. Also Systems Made Better, "Set Up Claude Cowork better than 99% of people" — 605,780 views, score 1,033.

The "AI employees" frame is proven twice over. Every channel running it is a builder demoing tools. None of them has ever run a department.

Hook: "I managed 350 artists at MAC. I run more output now with fewer people than I had direct reports. Here's the actual org chart."

Thumbnail: An org chart where most boxes are software. Text: MY REAL ORG CHART.

6. Why EMV Is a Vanity Metric, and What I'd Have a CMO Track Instead

Pillar 2 · Cultural Read Source outlier: Dave Gerhardt, "What is Account Based Marketing? (Full Guide to ABM)" — outlier score 399 on a 1,920-subscriber channel.

Definitional B2B marketing content overperforms at tiny scale. Nobody is doing the contrarian version.

Hook: "Earned media value is a number agencies invented to make you feel better about a campaign that didn't sell anything. I've presented it. I've also stopped."

Thumbnail: EMV in large type, red line through it.

7. Brands Are Media Channels Now. Most Companies Haven't Noticed Yet.

Pillar 2 · Cultural Read Source outlier: Kallaway, "How to Become a Storytelling Genius (Dopamine Ladders)" — 583,568 views, outlier score 315, and the biggest channel in your set that still gets outliers.

He does mechanism-naming for creators. You do it for boardrooms.

Hook: "I've been early on this three times. Instagram Shoppable. Vertical video ads before there was a format for them. Creator Darwinism. Here's the fourth."

Thumbnail: Split — a TV station logo and a corporate logo. Text: SAME THING NOW.

8. How a Celebrity Makeup Artist Became the First Chief Creator Officer in Advertising

Pillar 4 · Story Source outlier: Saad E. Abbas, "Being Loyal to a Company, Is It Worth It in 2025?" — 16,931 views, outlier score 166, on a career-arc channel.

Career-pivot storytelling reliably overperforms. Yours has a title that has never existed before.

Hook: "The job didn't exist. I didn't apply for it. I described it in a room until somebody wrote it down."

Thumbnail: Two photos side by side — kit in hand, then stage. Text: THE TITLE DIDN'T EXIST.

9. Why Employee-Generated Content Beats a $250K Influencer Campaign on Cost Alone

Pillar 3 · Enterprise EGC Source outlier: EveryoneSocial, "Paid Social vs Employee Advocacy: By The Numbers" (2023) — the argument exists, stranded on a 125-subscriber vendor channel with three-year-old maths.

Versus-comparison is only 2% of outlier titles in your niche. It's underused, not unproven.

Hook: "I've signed both cheques. One of them I'd sign again."

Thumbnail: Two columns of numbers, one circled. Text: I SIGNED BOTH.

10. Stop Polishing an Idea Nobody's Confirmed They'd Buy

Pillar 1 · Offer Mechanics Source outlier: James Kemp, "How To Build A $1m Solo Biz (8 hour Full Course)" — 5,144 views on 9,760 subscribers, outlier score 726. Closest competitor in your entire set.

He's the only person at Tier 1 selling to your exact avatar. The lane above him is empty.

Hook: "You've been building that thing for seven months. Nobody has offered you money for it. Those two facts are related."

Thumbnail: You, unimpressed, one eyebrow. Text: 7 MONTHS. ZERO BUYERS.

Your first video: #1 — You Don't Have a Content Problem. You Have an Unactivated Payroll.

Sandy's test for a first video is a proven topic with low competition. This is the only idea on the list that clears both by a wide margin, with evidence rather than instinct.

Proven. DSMN8 pulled 6,994 views on 359 subscribers. That's a 67.9× breakout on a topic with real search demand.

Low competition. The entire category on YouTube is seven vendor channels, every one under 700 subscribers. There is no independent voice. Not a small one — none.

Only you can make it. Every existing video on this topic ends in a product demo, because a software company paid for it. You've sat on the buying side of those campaigns, run the org that would supply the creators, and held a title invented for exactly this argument. Nobody in that category can say any of that.

It sells something. It maps to EGC Kickstart at $12,500 and the EGC Operating System at $52,500/month. It's the top of a real funnel, not content for its own sake.

Make it easy on yourself

Ten to fourteen minutes. Talking head, one camera, no b-roll. Open on the $250K number in the first five seconds — no introduction, no channel trailer, no "hey guys." Name one real brand you've watched do this badly and one that did it well. Close on a provocation, not a recap: the best people in the building already know how to make this content, and the only question is whether they'll do it for you or leave and do it for themselves.

Title it exactly as written. It's already in your voice — it came out of your Blueprint's pillar 3.

Then film #2 second

The MAC teardown is the strongest thing you'll ever put on this channel, but it's a story video with no search demand behind it. It performs far better once there's an audience to tell it to. Video 1 brings the CMOs in. Video 2 is what makes them trust you.
